PROFILE: ELYSE CANTOR SOARS IN FRONTIERS: THE LIVE EXPERIENCE

Award-winning, indie film maven ELYSE CANTOR may have escaped her native Midwest, but just can't seem to shake the inexorable mark of wholesomeness burned into her soul by her hometown of Detroit.

However, her dual roles of brilliant, holographic exhibitionist "Jil" and sultry, Yuletide chanteuse "Eichlin Jin" in FRONTIERS: THE LIVE EXPERIENCE may just change all that.

Elyse has a blossoming resumé of film and television credits, as well as extensive theatre experience. For her performance in the feature THE LIFE AND DEATH OF AN UNHAPPILY MARRIED MAN, Elyse won the "Next Gen Actress" award at the Twister Alley International Film Festival and was nominated for best actress at the Austin Indie Flix Showcase.

In her spare time, she dances in jazz and hip-hop styles and sings all kinds of music. However, she saves these pursuits as a source of everyday fun rather than doing them for financial gain.

"I decided not to try and monetize all my passions and leave some just for joy."

Elyse also newlyweds...if one can use that as a verb. And she claims to be "very enthusiastic about hummus," though her stance on other snack dips...from salsa to sour cream and chives...remains unclear.
